FLAMES ABOUT THE CHILDREN

When the Father Awoke and Fought
His Way Through the Smoke and Fire.

NARROW ESCAPE OF FAMILY

Home of Harry Goldman Was Reduced to Ashes—$160 in Money Was Burned.

The hand of Providence was evidenced Sunday morning in a fire that totally destroyed the home of Harry Goldman, living three and one-half miles south of Carthage. Had it not been for some unseen condition like the tender care of an ever watchful guardian angel, it is reasonable to believe that the entire Goldman family would now be dead, their forms burned to a crisp in the ruins of their home which was reduced to ashes.

Without any previous warning and without cause, Mr. Goldman arose at an unusually early hour and as one in a dream wandered into the room adjoining where his two children slept. The sight that met his eyes caused his blood to run cold for the bed containing the two precious ones was all aflame. He fairly sprang to the side of the cot and throwing off the burning bed clothes snatched his children from the fire and rushed outside with them in his arms. The father was nearly overcome by the shock and the dense smoke and fully expected to find his children dead from inhaling the flames and smoke. His wife was aroused but the family did not succeed in saving a single article of furniture, and were thankful to get off with their lives. The children soon recovered from the effects of the fire under the care of their mother, and kind hearted neighbors provided a place for them. In addition to losing all their household goods, $160 in money was burned in the fire. In all Mr. Goldman sustained a loss of about $600. He is building a new house nearby and the loss of the old building will not prove a serious one.

BUT THREE REPLIES FOUND CORRECT

Mrs. Atwell Boling Carries Off the First Two Dollar Prize in the Contest.

FOUR WEEKS MORE OF IT

Interest is increasing in the Missing Word contest and many answers were received in the mail and were personally presented this morning. Mrs. Atwell Boling of North Hannah street, was found to be the winner of the Friday evening contest and will receive two dollars, as no one guessed the missing words on Thursday evening. Only three correct answers were submitted today. All the prize winners are requested to call at this office and receive the money awarded them. The missing words were "best" in Hargrove & Mullin's ad and "promptly" from the Indiana Post Card Co. ad.

It is well to remember that all sending letters by mail have an equal chance with those who come to the office with their replies. Do not hesitate to send in a letter as you may be the only one making a correct guess. There remains four weeks of the contest and it offers an opportunity for those participating to earn a little Xmas money.

THANKSGIVING PROCLAMATION.

The custom of appointing a day in each year as a time of thanksgiving is now one of our established institutions. The general health, happiness and well-being which now exists throughout the country makes it particularly fitting that we should thus recognize the blessings bestowed upon us.

Therefore, I call upon the citizens of Rushville, in conformity with the proclamation of the United States and the Governor of the State of Indiana, designating Thursday, November 26, as Thanksgiving Day, to abstain as far as possible from their usual pursuits and unite at their respective places of worship and render unto Almighty God their thanksgiving for His mercies. I request further that as far as possible all municipal business be suspended on that day.

Witness, my hand and the seal of the city of Rushville, this 23d day of November, A. D., One thousand Nine Hundred Eight.

HARVEY M. COWING,
Mayor.

LOCAL TEAM GOES DOWN TO DEFEAT

Before the Fast Play of the Clinton County Lads to the Tune of 24 to 0.

OXFORD HERE THANKSGIVING

The Rushville high school foot ball team was defeated last Saturday by the Kirklin team at the latter place by the score of 24 to 0.

The crippled condition of the home team had much to do with the large score which the opposing eleven made. The local boys also felt the absence of half-back Sparks, who decided that he could not accompany the squad at the last minute. There was complaint on the part of the part of the members of the Rushville team as to the condition of the foot ball which they were compelled to use during the whole contest. They claim this had much to do with the unexpected result.

The Oxford, Ohio, team will play here Thanksgiving on the South Main street grounds and a good game is assured as the local team has defeated the boys from the Buckeye State once this season by a close score.

SAY WHAT DO YOU KNOW ABOUT THIS?

Andersonville Woman Invents and
Patents a Chicken Gaper Arrangement.

Listen to this: The Andersonville Four County Herald says:

"For several years Mrs. Theodore Walker has been working on a machine to rid chickens of the gape, a disease very prevalent around here, and which causes great loss to the feathered flocks each year. Recently she was successful in getting the machine to do the work and sent a model to the patent office where it was received and a patent granted. Now, she is trying to have it patented in Canada to keep her rights from being infringed upon. Mrs. Walker will either establish a factory for the manufacture of the little machines or sell the right to people who will make them."

POISON KILLS CARTHAGE MAN

Dayton Bitner, Retired Farmer Succumbs to Gangrene Poisoning
Sunday.

HAD HIS LEG AMPUTATED

Physicians and Surgeons Made Desperate Effort to Save Afflicted Man's Life.

Dayton Bitner, a retired farmer of Carthage, died at his home yesterday morning of gangrene poisoning, after suffering several weeks. Mr. Bitner became afflicted some time ago and suffered excruciating pain for many days. His condition became so serious that it was necessary to amputate his leg above the knee, in a desperate effort to save his life. But this heroic method was resorted to at a late hour for already the poisoning had gotten into his system and death was the victor in the final struggle.

Deceased was fifty-nine years of age and had made a success of farming, accumulating his share of this world's goods, and then retired to quiet days in peace and tranquility.

Mr. Bitner is survived by a wife and one son and daughter, Roy Bitner, and Mrs. Ruby Earnest. The funeral services will be held tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock at the Carthage Methodist church. Burial at Carthage.

ETHICS COVERING BURIAL OF HORSES

Road Supervisors Must See That They go Six Feet Below the Surface.

CAN BE SUED FOR DAMAGES

The attention to road supervisors is called to their duty relative to the burial of farm animals, the carcasses of which must be placed six feet beneath the surface, according to the regulations of the department. A carcass found on the surface must be buried at the demand of a supervisor or the latter is required to hire the work done and bring suit for damage. A cleaner, better, more sanitary procedure is for the farmer to sell or give the carcasses to a rendering establishment and it will then be incinerated and the danger removed of any pollution to the soil or to running water from the bodies of deceased animals.

Goldie had signed an affidavit charging John Gard with having giving liquor to her. This morning when the case was called before Mayor Cowing, "Little Goldie" was numbered among the missing. Add the case was dismissed.

STUDY BIBLE AS LITERATURE

Great Many Beautiful and Forceful
Thoughts Brought Out By Talented, Earnest Student.

The May Donnan class in the study of "The Bible as Literature," held its regular meeting Saturday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Frank Hackleman, in North Morgan street.

One can not overestimate the great profit to be derived from a systematic study of any subject. Even more gratifying are the results obtained when that study is wisely directed by one who has given earnest and conscientious thought in preparation, who is a deep original thinker, keeping in touch with the advanced thought of the times. Often a subject is interesting or not according to the manner in which it is presented and because of the charming and attractive manner in which Mrs. Donnan handles her analyses of Bible stories one is enabled to recognize certain qualities in the story. In a written analyses of the story of Jonah, Mrs. Donnan said that whether one cares to believe it or not, whether it be fairy tale, parable or symbol, the story is a great lesson in obedience and Jonah's prayer one of the most splendid and poetic in the Bible.—Whatever else Hawthorne had in mind when he wrote "The House of Seven Gables" he must have been familiar with the story of Naboth's vineyard. Col. Pyncheon coveted the property of Mathew Maule just as Ahab coveted Naboth's vineyard: The curse which Mathew Maule pronounced upon the house of Pyncheon is almost identical with the curse Elijah pronounced upon Ahab and his descendants.—The story of Jezebel calls to mind the story of Lady Macbeth; Jezebel wanted her husband to acquire a vineyard, Lady Macbeth wanted her's to acquire a throne.—The suggestion is offered by contrast as well, Jezebel planned her crime with greatest coolness Lady Macbeth had to nerve herself to the deed by constant appeals to the worst of her nature. Lady Macbeth repented; Jezebel remained defiant to the end.

The story of Athaliah has been the subject of many dramas and poems. Mme Maintenon suggested the theme to Racine and he wrote his masterpiece "Athaliah." The character of Athaliah was one of Rachel's great parts. Mr. Henry VanDyke has written a splendid drama "The House of Rimmon," founded upon the story of Naaman's cure.

The class will meet Saturday afternoon, December 5th, with Mrs. Samuel Innis in North Perkins street.

TELEPHONE WAR REACHES CRISIS

The Bell Enjoined From Molesting Independents.

ACTION TAKEN AT CLEVELAND

In Suit Brought by Independent Long-Distance Company Operating in Ohio Federal Court Was Asked to Grant an Injunction Covering the Operations of the Bell Company in Ohio, Indiana and Illinois Insofar as These Operations Affect the Plaintiff Company, Under Provisions of Anti-Trust Law.

Cleveland, O., Nov. 23.—United States Judge Taylor has granted an injunction against the American Telephone and Telegraph company (Bell long-distance system), and the Central Union Telephone company (Bell company operating in Ohio, Indiana and Illinois) restraining them from interfering with the business of the independent companies operating in those and adjoining states.

The injunction was granted at Cleveland upon the application of Clarence Brown, general counsel, and Jas. S. Brailey, jr., president of the United States Telephone company, which is the independent long distance telephone company operating in Ohio and adjoining states, in a suit brought by that company.

It is charged that the Bell is pursuing the policy of buying independent exchanges or selling Bell exchanges, where there are competing companies, and in some instances absorbing independent companies by merger and consolidation, or division of territory so as to eliminate competition and establish a complete Bell control. This is said to be in violation not only of the Sherman anti-trust law, but also of the laws of Ohio, Indiana, Illinois and other states in which the companies operate. This policy is said to be shown by the official reports of the officers and directors of the Bell company, to their stockholders.

The bill also charges that instead of using their enormous profits to develop the business, they used them in paying exorbitant dividends, and in acquiring control of competitive properties in order to suppress competition. They are charged with issuing many times the original cost of the stock in stock dividends, and paying at times 18 per cent a year in dividends.

It is shown that they can control in many local telephone companies and companies manufacturing telephone apparatus. In 1903 they attempted to purchase control of the Kellogg Switchboard and Supply company of Chicago, and later of the United States Independent Telephone company of Rochester, N. Y., and the Stromberg Carlson Telephone Manufacturing company of Rochester. Suits were brought in Illinois and New York to prevent these consolidations, as being in violation of the anti-trust laws of those states. In both cases the Bell companies were defeated.

It is charged that when competition began the Bell companies adopted the policy of starting competing exchanges and operated them at ruinous rates, in many instances giving free service; bringing suits on patent claims; threatening independent companies with financial ruin and of destruction of their plants. It is said that in some instances the independent companies were driven out of business and their equipment burned in public.

President's Thanksgiving Turkey.
Westerly, R. I., Nov. 23.—The Rhode Island turkey which Horace Vose will send to the president, according to his annual custom, to grace the table of the White House on Thanksgiving day, went on the execution block Sunday and was shipped to Washington today. It is the best of a lot of chestnut-fed birds which have been selected and specially reared as candidates for the distinction. The bird weighs twenty-six pounds. President Grant was the first occupant of the White House to receive a Thanksgiving turkey from the Vose flock, and each year since then the gift has been renewed.

Pekin, Nov. 23.—Prince Chun's recent edict, in which he declined to permit any interference from the Dowager Empress Yehonala, has cleared the throne from any possible domination of the clan of women, at least until the new emperor, Prince Pu Yi, assumes power. greater degree of obedience to the regent than others and which threatened disobeying princes and officials with severe punishment, indicates the government's recognition of the present opportunity for a palace housecleaning.

While all is quiet at Peking, detachments of troops guard the city gates and gendarmes are on duty at the approaches to the foreign legations. The government has not ceased to take precautionary measures, lest something in the nature of an outbreak happens here, for revolutionists are spreading all kinds of reports, which might act like firebrands to the spirit of uneasiness underlying present conditions in China. Stringent measures have been taken to suppress any sign of conspiracy and the government has ordered an investigation of the governor of Ngan-Hwei province, on account of a slight uprising that took place there. Two Peking newspapers have been fined, and one has been suppressed for publishing details of the illness and death of the emperor and the dowager empress.

Unless.

It was remarked in these columns a few days ago that for the present and a long time to come the Democratic party appears to be out of the game "unless"—and there the sentence was cut off, leaving that fateful conjunction hanging in the air. Unless what? Unless the Republican party's representatives at Washington fail to meet the expectations of the people. If they fail in that, the Democratic party will have another chance for its white alley. That is now the burning question. What will Congress do? Will the standpatters take the results of the election as an endorsement of themselves, or of President Roosevelt's administration and the platform which promised a continuance of the reforms under him?

Mr. Bryan said they would do the former; that they would take a Republican victory as a vindication and stand pat rather than ever; and upon that ground he offered himself as the only reliable reformer in the country. In the past Mr. Bryan's prophecies have generally come true in a contrary sense; like dreams. What he predicted didn't happen. It is to be hoped that his hard-earned reputation as the great mistaker will be justified again. We shall soon see. Congress will meet in fourteen days. It will have three months of opportunity before it. The unfinished work of the last session is on the table, ready to be taken up. President Roosevelt's message will not fail to recommend the enactment of the laws which will most perfectly round out the work of his administration. What will senators and representatives do? We shall know more when he flowers bloom in the spring than we know now, and we may have in that knowledge a hint as to the possible future of the Democratic party.

What Our Neighbors Are Talking About

A MONSTER PEAR.

(Laurel Review.)

Postmaster Lockwood was the recipient of a pear from Oregon, sent by his wife, who is at present sojourning in that State, that measures 15 inches in circumference, 6½ inches long and weighs 26 ounces. It is in perfect state of preservation and is probably the largest ever seen here.

SKELETON WAS PERFECT.

(Carthage Citizen.)

Granville D. Miller and L. D. Gardner drove to Milton Thursday in E. D. Lewis' ambulance and brought back with them the bones of Mr. Miller's father who was laid to rest thirty-three years ago in the old Milford graveyard which is now rapidly going into a state of decay.

The elder Miller was a strict friend, and in compliance with his request, his coffin—a hand-made polished walnut of one inch thickness, was perfectly plain, even being devoid of handles. His body was wrapped in an old-fashioned winding sheet. Although the coffin was placed in a brick vault with a stone cover, it had almost crumbled to dust. The skeleton was in perfect condition. The bones were solid, but disjointed upon being touched. They were carefully replaced in another casket and brought here where they were interred by the grave of Mrs. Miller in the Friends' cemetery.

Prices of all living increased; the only exception Mrs. Austins pancake flour. Same old price at all best grocers.

Land of Authors

The Saturday Evening Post would be in hard lines these days if Indiana did not come to the rescue. The Thanksgiving issue, which is an- The best poetry in the Post is written number, shows Indiana artists, authors and poets in the front rank. The first story in the current issue is illustrated by George Brehm, a young Hoosier, who lately left Indiana and hung up his shingle in New York. The next story is illustrated by John T. McCutcheon, cartoonist of the Chicago Tribune, and an Indiana product. Another story has the illustrations of Fred C. Yohn, for several years one of the leading Hoosier artists. The leading serial story in the magazine is written by David Graham Phillips, formerly of Madison, and the hero of the story is reputed to be an Indiana politician. nounced as an exceptionally good by Wilbur D. Nesbit, a young newspaper man who hails from the Shelbyville neighborhood.

Dollar Fish.

"Have you any dollar fish here?" a woman asked of one of the attendants at the aquarium.

While the question may seem curious, it was really very simple, for the dollar fish is only a young moonfish.

The moonfish is a curious but beautiful creature, almost round in shape and extremely thin and having the loveliest of pearly sides. It swims on edge, so that it always presents its sides of pearl to view. It takes its name from its shape and because, further, in color it suggests the silvery moon.

Young moonfish of the size of a standard silver dollar—and they are scarcely any thicker—are called dollar fishes because of their resemblance to that coin in size and shape and color, and the woman making the inquiry about dollar fishes was duly informed that there was none in the tanks at the present time, but that they did have them occasionally. —New York Sun.

Three Sabbaths Each Week In Tangier. Morocco is a country of many Sabbaths. The first three days I spent in Tangier were all Sabbaths. Arriving on a Thursday night, the next day was Friday, the Mohammedan Sabbath, which was followed by the Jewish Sabbath—the Hebrew element in Tangier is considerable and strict in religious observance—and that in turn by the Christian Sunday. Subsequent comparison, however, revealed little difference between any days of the week. On the Mohammedan Sabbath a black flag is hoisted on the minarets at the prayer of dawn, instead of the white flag that announces the time of devotions on other days. It remains up until the middle of the forenoon, by which time everybody is supposed to have found out what day it is. —New York Post.

HOMES DESIRED FOR CHILDREN.

"The agents of the Board of State Charities have in the past year been very successful in securing a large number of good homes for dependent children who are public wards. There are still a large number of desirable children available for placing in suitable homes. Doubtless there are many families that would make a home for a child. An important part of the Board's work is to bring the homeless child and the childless home together. The Board solicits the co-operation of all who are interested in securing proper homes in families for children." For further information address the Board of State Charities, State House, Indianapolis, Ind.

SPRAINED HIS ANKLE.

O. D. Pauley, the new local agent with the Massachusetts Mutual Life Insurance company, received a bad sprain to his ankle in getting off an interurban car at his home in Indianapolis early Sunday morning. Mr. Pauley stepped from the car to the pavement and the pavement being wet he slipped. Mr. Pauley recently came here to work with "Talk it Over Folsom."

YOU HAVE TO PAY TO SEE THEM WED

Unknown Couple Will Have a Hallelujah Wedding at Salvation Army Church.

THE PUBLIC IS INVITED

You will have to pay if you want to see this wedding. But it is said to be well worth the mite asked. Next Wednesday evening at the Salvation church in Pearl street there is going to be a "Hallelujah Wedding." The principals are to be two well known young people in the army work here and Mayor Escott, of Indianapolis, will officiate. The ceremony will occur at 8 o'clock. No one will know the names of the parties to be married until they march in to the stirring airs of hallelujah music.

CANCER CAUSE OF DEATH

Mrs. Phoebe Rotan Passed Away Early Sunday Morning.

Mrs. Phoebe Rotan, 65 years of age, widow of the late John Rotan of Falmouth, died early Sunday morning of cancer. Mrs. Rotan is survived by five children.

The funeral services will be conducted by Rev. J. T. Scull tomorrow morning at 9:30 o'clock in the Falmouth M. E. church. Burial at Hope-well, Ind.

Several Cases Considered But Nothing Definite Done.

The members of the Children's Board of Guardians met Saturday night and effected the following organization. Mrs. A. L. Stewart, president and Carl V. Nipp, secretary.

Several cases in the city were considered but nothing definite was done.

PASSED THROUGH HERE.

Aspecial train passed through the city on the C. H. & D. last night having aboard 110 men composing the degree team of the K. of P. lodge of Dayton. The team is going to Omaha, Neb., to initiate a class of 1000.

SUITS FILED TODAY.

Dewitt C. Buell filed suit against the C. H. & D. railroad, Judson Harmon, receiver, today, for damages amounting to $300.

Born to the wife of George Baker in North Washington street, today, a ten pound boy.

Homer Havens filed suit against Fred Clevenger today, demanding $200 on account.

Wm. Helm, trustee under the will of the Jefferson Helm deed, filed suit today against the C. H. & D. railroad, Judson Harmon, receiver, for damages amounting to $500.

An Expensive Dollar.

Not long ago in this town a kind friend of the family gave one of the kids a dollar. Of course it was too much to let the kid get out and spend for candy and gum, so it was religiously put up on the sideboard or some other safe place to be kept—just for what the deponent saith not. In about a week the juvenile owner of the big round coin remarked at the breakfast table, "Papa, mamma spent my dollar yesterday." The head of the house took the hint and fished up another dollar, which, like its predecessor, was placed in a good safe place to keep.

During the next month by a carefully tabulated record which he kept on his cuff he repaid this elusive dollar just thirteen times. So at the end of the month you will not be surprised to learn that our friend sent the donor of the original dollar this curt note:

Dear Sir—Inclosed you will find a check for $1. It's the dollar you gave our youngster. I return it simply to avoid bankruptcy. Already it has cost me somewhere between fifteen and twenty.

New York Fashion Letter

BY CATHERINE MANN-PAYZANT.

An exhibit given not long ago in the city of New York was probably one of the greatest ever devoted to fashion alone.

In view of the fact that the current styles are distinctly of the Directoire and Empire modes, a court yard and suite of rooms were fitted up to represent the Palace, the home of the Emperor Napoleon's wife. Everything fitted to a nicety in historical correctness. Hung in purple and decorated with the bees and wreaths of the Empire, it was a most beautiful background to the costumes of Beer, Paquin, Bernard, Callot and Havet.

The models were shown on both living and lay models, and each day there was a succession of new gowns and wraps, each remaining on view just long enough to be thoroughly examined.

One charming model from Callot was of velvet crepe meteor, with an overskirt edged with deep vole silk fringe. The fringe was also effectively used on the bodice, and will be seen on many costumes this season. There were sleeves of embroidered chiffon, and an embroidered vest showing touches of Empire guilt. The skirt was slashed at the side, and the opening filled in with plaited chiffon of violet hue.

A delicate shell pink crepe gown from Callot, with an embroidered band border studded with sequins, was an example of the liking this winter for a combination of the new pinks.

An importation from Worth was a costume of chiffon shading from black to grey, with the bodice draped with black satin. This was trimmed effectively with sequins of coral on bodice, sleeves and skirts, and even in the ends of the sash.

Paquin contributed an exquisite decollete model in pale lilac net over satin trimmed with broad bands of embroidery, which crossed in front and passed around the waist and fell in long sash ends in the back.

The Empire influence is seen everywhere. The separate coat is the salient feature of the day with the whole dress idea. The whole dress is a fashion that is dear to the majority of women for it is on the whole more becoming and far dressier than any other mode, and to the women of good proportions or of over proportions is capable of better adjustments than any other style that we have had of late years.

From the Empire, the semi-princess and Directoire modes every woman can find something that suits her own particular style. Moreover these modes are not used altogether in their original cuts are adapted and changed by our American dress-makers to suit the needs of the American woman and her life, which is far different from that of the woman of fashion in Europe. American women are not only of fashion but they are also women of affairs.

The materials most in vogue for the dressier modes are of the smooth glossy finished fabrics of the softest and most supple texture. Fine broadcloths, satins, silks, crepe de Chine, and the new and beautiful foulards are most in use.

For street wear, again the broadcloth is seen but of a heavier quality, serges of a fine saniny texture, mohairs, chevots and voiles, all manufactured with the idea of clinging lines and supple folds.

The Empire waist is the leader in the matter of bodices and some novel ideas are seen in the matter of draperies and trimmings. The small V. neck is usually the mode, made of lace and topped with a high collar and these are seen covered with embroideries and mock jewels and beautiful insets of rare old laces, for it is quite the mode to use several kinds of lace in the same costume. Softly gathered to the yoke are the back and front portions of the bodice. The upper part of the bodice, which comes a very little below the bust line, is usually draped or has a fichu gathered about it at the junction of the yoke and the bodice proper. In the front the fichu is crossed from right to left in surplice style. In the back it was gathered into each side of a high girdle. Below the girdle at what is known as the waist line, which is not now made prominent but rather effaced, the skirt began and hung perfectly plain and swept out in folds covered with some sort of a tunic effect. More often than not the tunic is gained by folds or bands, rather than an extra piece of goods, for no matter how soft the materials, bulkiness is apparent with anything that verges on the overskirt idea.

A novel drapery that was especially Grecian in its effect was seen on a costume of Wistaria chiffon cloth. The skirt was a plain one of the princess mode which slightly swept the ground and was entrain in the back. The upper portion of the front and left side portions were extended in soft draperies over the left shoulder where it was caught in a knot and again was carried down under the Empire girdle in the back. It looked much like a revival of some of the costumes seen in old pictures of Sappho. Of course, it is not every figure that could stand such an extreme fashion as this, but to the tall and slight woman it would be particularly becoming. The bodice proper was of fine embroidered net studded with jewels about the collar and lower part of the sleeves.

Sleeves of the mousquetaire mode are seen far more frequently than in any other style. It is one of the most picturesque styles of the season. Sleeves are by all means smaller and many are seen made in the leg o' mutton fashion of past years and especially are they worn when made in the tucked nets and laces. They should have the tucks crossing straight across the arm at the elbow. All of the net and lace bodices must be lined with some soft materials as chiffon or very fine silk. For figures of ample proportions these nets and laces are frequently dyed to minimize the size as a contrast between light and dark colors has just the opposite effect. In the three piece costume of skirt and coat and waist where the waist needs to be of a softer material, the net or lace waist is often dyed to avoid the effect of the tailored and shirtwaist suit.

Some of the more elegant costumes have plain skirts with elaborate coats. Many of the most fashionable coats are made in entaway style with broad revers that are elaborately embroidered and trimmed with fancy buttons. With coats of the entaway order careful attention should be given to the fitting of the girdle. A fashionable mode of finish is to extend the front panel of the skirt sufficiently high to meet the girdle. It should be finished at the top with a sharp point, a draped girdle should pass around the bust and from under a knot that hides the opening are two long ends that fall at the left side.

A FAMOUS BEAUTY SPECIALIST

Gives Advice to Women Lacking in Energy and Vitality.

Thousands of women are using toilet preparations unsuccessfully.

Cosmetics fail to improve their thick muddy complexions or to banish the pimples, blackheads and crow's-feet.

No wonder. Their trouble lies far deeper than the skin. They have bad blood, and bad blood in 90 per cent. of the cases arises from inflammation of the mucous membrane. Their blood is filled with poison which is humors and blotches—while pale, drawn faces, deep circled eyes, stooping shoulders and weak backs complete the story of the suffering and despair.

Inflammation of the mucous membrane is catarrh. Banish catarrh and complexions will clear as if by magic, pains vanish, eyes will brighten, faces become plump and shoulders erect. Perfect beauty goes only with perfect health, and perfect health for women can only be obtained through Rexall Muc-Tone, the one positive and permanent cure for catarrh.

Mme. Swift, 44 W. 26th St., New York City, the most famous beauty specialist in the world and an accepted authority on all relating thereto, has this to say of Muc-Tone:

"I can strongly endorse the claims made for Rexall Muc-Tone as a cure for systemic catarrh. Its tonic effects are remarkable. It builds up the strength and restores vitality. If women who are tired and run down lacking in energy and vitality, will use Muc-Tone, they will praise it as I do for its strengthening and healing qualities."

Rexall Muc-Tone works through the blood, and acting directly upon the mucous cells—the congestion and inflammation of which are the sole cause of catarrh—causes them to expel the poison and to resume their natural functions. Thus the membranes are cleansed—the blood purified and revitalized.

We know that Rexall Muc-Tone will cure every form of catarrh, no matter where located, of how long standing, or by what other names it is known. We guarantee to refund your money if you are not satisfied with the vigorous health and clear complexion it brings you.

WORDS OF PRAISE FOR SUPT. HEADLEE

Rush County Teachers Association
Adopt Resolutions Commending
Work of Mr. Headlee.

THE OFFICERS WERE ELECTED

The annual meeting of the Rush County Teachers Association which was held in the assembly room in the court house Saturday was successful in every particular. The lecturers were far above the average, and the music furnished by orchestras from several small towns in the county was excellent.

The following officers were elected for the coming year: President, Edgar Stiers of Manilla; Vice-president, Ed. Woods of Arlington; Secretary, Anna Geraghty of this city, and treasurer, Floyd Minor of Carthage. The following executive committee was appointed by the president: John Geraghty, Ralo Glenn and Charles Glenn.

The organization then passed resolutions commending the work of Prof. W. O. Headlee as county superintendent and also expressing their sincere regret at his departure.

Resolutions were passed pledging their support to the new superintendent, Orlando Randall, and the meeting was adjourned until next year.

AMUSEMENTS

The most sensational play of the age "The Devil" as now being played at the Garden Theater New York City, by Henry W. Savage's Famous Company, will be the attraction at the Grande theater tomorrow night. It is a modern story of a man and a woman, battling with the temptation of forbidden love, whose good resolutions and virtuous purpose are eventually overcome by the artful machinations of the Devil. In spite of their resistance, he fans the spark of passion, that the woman, unhappily married, struggles to extinguish, weaving about them a tangle of circumstances, and false appearances from which they are unable to extricate themselves. Reserved seats now on sale.

The "Rex Cotton Mill Robbery" is the title of the film at the Grand theater tonight. It is the story of a man's life who was falsely accused and placed in prison, but is finally made right. Miss Brown will sing, "My Rosy Rambler."

Large crowds attended the Vaudeville last week. The same high class program will be continued this week with talking pictures every night. New films tonight and a new song by Miss Gregg.

Lady Betty Across the Water.

By C. N. & A. M. WILLIAMSON.

Copyright, 1906, by McClure, Phillips & Co.

I looked up, all teary and flushed, and there was Mr. Brett staring at me

"My precious one—my darling!" he stammered.

with horrified eyes and his face as desperate as if he had found me struck by lightning or gored by the black and white bull.

I was so ashamed and confused that I couldn't speak, but just sat there gazing up helplessly at him, with tears running down my cheeks and my lips trembling. The most awful look came into his eyes, and he went as pale as I was red.

"My precious one—my darling!" he stammered, and, dropping down on one knee by the big log, he put his arms around me.

"Oh!" I said. And then my head was nestling down into his neck, and instead of being wretched I was perfectly happy.

"Who has dared to make you cry?" he asked, holding me close.

"You," I answered.

"I?"

"I thought you were only being kind to me because—because you're an American and it's your duty to a foreigner."

He laughed at that—an excited, happy laugh, with a queer break in it.

"I've been half out of my mind with love for you ever since the first day I saw you looking down at me in the steerage. Am I quite out of it now, or can it be true that you care for me—just a little, little bit?"

"I care for you dreadfully," said I. "Why, this isn't friendship, is it? It's being in love."

"I should think it was—with me," he said. "It's all of me—heart, soul and body—drowning in love."

"Don't drown," I whispered to him. "I can't spare you."

After that we didn't say a word, but I hadn't supposed it was possible for any human creature to feel so seraphically happy as I did. I don't know how long a time passed before we even spoke, but it seemed only a minute—a minute stolen straight out of heaven.

And he was so handsome and dear that I would have kept that minute forever if I could, for it was impossible to believe that another could be so perfect.

But by and by it did merge into sister minutes just as good, and we began to talk and tell each other things.

He told me again how he'd loved me from the very first instant, and I told him that after the day on the dock, if not before, I'd never quite had him out of my thoughts for a moment.

"There has always been a sort of undertone of you," I went on, "no matter what else I was thinking of. Just as, Sally says, when you are near the sea you hear it through every other sound."

He liked having me say that, and his eyes are too glorious when he likes things that I say.

"I loved you so much," he answered, "that I felt my love must have some power over your heart. It couldn't go for nothing. I knew I wasn't worthy of you, but the love was, for no man in your own world could offer you a greater one. That's my justification for asking you to put your hand in mine. But am I asking too much? Are you sure you won't regret anything you may have to give up?"

"There's nothing I wouldn't give up to be with you always," I assured him. "But I don't see that I shall have to give up much that I really care for. We shall be poor, of course, but I shan't mind that a bit with you. We can live in a sweet little cottage somewhere, can't we? Or if you have to be in a town we shall have a wee, wee flat, and it will be such fun looking after it, just like having a doll's house, only a hundred times better. I've never been rich, you know. It's always been rather a struggle, and ever so many of my dresses have been made out of mother's or Victoria's. I shall learn to cook and sew."

"If I were so poor as all that, darling, I shouldn't be asking you to marry me," said Jim. "I'm better off than you think, for, as I told you, I've been doing fairly well lately, and I guess if one of us two ever has to cook it will be I. We might have to do that sometimes, but it will only be if we're camping somewhere."

"I do hope so. It would be glorious!" I exclaimed.

"We can have the cottage or the flat all right, or maybe even both if things go on as well as they're going now," he said, "and there's nothing on God's earth I won't do to make you happy. Heavens! I should think so, after what you're doing for me—trusting me without knowing any more of me than you've seen in these few weeks!"

"I'd have trusted you to the world's end after the day you jumped overboard and saved the little boy. Besides, you were you, and I'd have trusted you just the same if you hadn't."

"Bless you, my angel. But think of the marriages you might have made."

"I couldn't have made more than one; at least I hope not," said I flippantly. "I could never have married any one but you, so I should have had to be an old maid if you hadn't asked me, and think how awful that would have been. You don't regret asking me, do you?"

"Regret? Well—it doesn't bear talking of. I suppose I ought to be able to say that I'd meant to keep my love to myself, and it only sprang out on an ungovernable impulse. But it wouldn't be true if I did. I always meant to ask you from the very first—though I had little enough hope, even up to today, that it would be anything more than friendship on your part. But, oh, how hard I did mean to try for you. My one virtue was to wait until you had seen enough of other men—men of a different sort—for you to be sure you didn't prefer one of them. And when accident had put you very near me I did manage not to lose my head and speak while you were, in a way, under my protection, for that would have been brutal. But heaven knows—and Miss Woodburn knows—that I came mighty near it once or twice. I'm thankful I didn't. Now you know the best and worse of the other sort of men and the best and worst of me. You see the kind of people whose blood runs in my veins, and still you are ready to say that my people shall be your people. I'm not afraid of anything that can happen now."

"You needn't be," I said, slipping my other hand into his, for he had one of them already. "Mother may be vexed with me for going against her wishes, but she will have to forgive me, or even if she doesn't I shall have you."

"I think she will forgive you, darling," said Jim. "I will make her forgive you."

The rest of the day was perfectly divine, and it is almost as delightful to live it over again, as I am doing now in writing the story of it, after we have said good night.

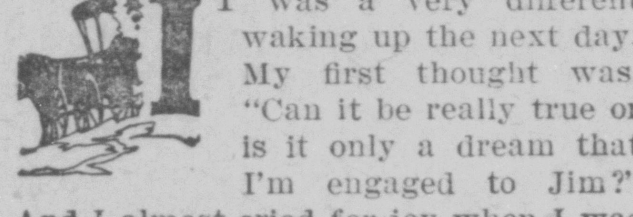

We forgot all about going back to the house until some one came out and rang the bell for tea in the field where we couldn't help hearing. Then we told the cousins our news, and they were immensely pleased. They seemed to think that Jim and I were made for each other, and Mrs. Trowbridge said she had seen that it was coming all along.

After tea we walked over to call on

Sally, and she was just as glad as I thought she would be.

"You are going to marry one of the finest fellows on earth. I believe," said she, "and I congratulate you as well as him."

I do love Sally!

Chapter 20

It was a very different waking up the next day. My first thought was, "Can it be really true or is it only a dream that I'm engaged to Jim?"

And I almost cried for joy when I was quite sure it was true.

We both wrote letters to my mother and so did Sally. I didn't see theirs, but I could guess what they said, and I could trust Sally to praise Jim. Still, all the praises in the world wouldn't reconcile mother to what I was going to do.

Jim had promised Mr. Trowbridge to pronounce judgment on a horse which he thought of buying, and the man who wanted to sell the creature brought it to the farm about 11 o'clock.

Sally had come to tell about the letter she had just posted to mother, and Jim was in the sitting room writing his. I think he had forgotten about the horse until Mr. Trowbridge appeared, looking rather excited.

"Say, Jim," he exclaimed, "Jake Jacobsen's here with the horse. He's round by the barn now, and you might as well have a look at it; but it's an awful brute, and I ain't going to take it at any price."

"What's the matter with the horse?" asked Jim, sealing up his letter and looking interested.

"It's mad crazy, that's all, but it's enough for me. I thought there must be something wrong for Jake to be offering it at the price he did."

"I'll come," said Jim, getting up.

I jumped up too.

"Oh, please don't have anything to do with such a vicious creature," I begged. "You might be killed."

Jim laughed. "The horse isn't sired that could kill me, I reckon. I know them too well. Why, little girl, I was brought up among horses. You can trust me not to run too big risks now I've got something to make life worth living."

Stan has often told me that men hate girls to fuss over them, so I bit my lip and didn't tease any more, but I was far from happy. I didn't like the look in his eyes.

"May Sally and I go and see the horse with you?" I meekly asked.

"I'll ride him up to the house if I find he's worth your seeing," Jim said. "But you mustn't worry if we don't come this way for awhile. I may have to work with him a bit before he's ready to show himself off to ladies."

With that he got his hat and went out with Mr. Trowbridge, who was waiting with a twinkle in his eyes.

Already Jim and Mr. Trowbridge had disappeared, but as we were choosing the coolest place for our chairs we saw a dusty, nondescript old vehicle rattling up the maple avenue and just about to turn into the narrow road which leads round the side of the house.

"Visitors," said I. "I didn't know Mrs. Trowbridge was expecting"—Then I broke off, with a little gasp.

"Oh, Sally, it's"—

"The duke and Katherine!" she gurgled.

All my blood raced up to my head as if I were going to have a sunstroke.

Mrs. Trowbridge and the girls were busy in the kitchen making peach jam, so when the wretched old chaise drew up close to the veranda Sally and I were alone to receive it.

If my sense of humor hadn't been trampled upon by various emotions which were all jumping about at the same time, I should have had hard work not to laugh when Stan and Mrs. Ess Kay scrambled out from under the lumbering old hood, which was like a great coal scuttle turned over their heads. Their hair was gray with dust, their faces purple with heat, and evidently they were both in towering tempers.

The Word "Charlatan." "Charlatan," says a writer in the London Chronicle, "is companion to 'quack' in our vocabulary, and of this word the origin is certainly Italian. It is 'ciarlatano,' merely a chatterer, and describes the traveling doctor in his cart who used to offer in an overwhelming torrent of talk his pills to villagers in the market place. He was a dentist as well as a physician and wrenched out the tooth in public. The genus is not yet entirely extinct."

A Word Breaker.

"Fine looking old gentleman." "Yes, but he was never known to give a man his word that he did not break it."

"Dishonest, eh?"

"Nope; he stutters."—Houston Post.

Dignity and Ignorance.

"So you have decided to call in another doctor?"

"I have," was the reply. "The absurdity of the man prescribing linseed tea and mustard plasters for people of our position!"

A Noble Parent.

In writing a sketch of Washington a pupil ended her essay by saying, "Washington married a famous belle, Martha Custis, and in due time became the Father of His Country."—Delineator.

PAIN

Pain in the head—pain anywhere, has its cause. Pain is congestion, pain is blood pressure—nothing else usually. At least, so says Dr. Shoop, and to prove it he has created a little pink tablet. That tablet—called Dr. Shoop's Headache Tablet—coaxes blood pressure away from pain centers. Its effect is charming, pleasingly delightful. Gently, though safely, it surely equalizes the blood circulation.

If you have a headache, it's blood pressure. If it's painful periods with women, same cause. If you are sleepless, restless, nervous, it's blood congestion—blood pressure. That surely is a certainty, for Dr. Shoop's Headache Tablets stop it in 20 minutes, and the tablets simply distribute the unnatural blood pressure.

Bruiise your finger, and doesn't it get red, and swell, and pain you? Of course it does. It's congestion, blood pressure. You'll find it where pain is—always. It's simply Common Sense.

A Significant Fact

No other medicine for woman's ills has any such professional endorsement as Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription has received, in the unqualified recommendation of each of its several ingredients by scores of leading medical men of all the schools of practice. Is such an endorsement not worthy of your consideration? Is it not a significant fact too that

Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription

Is the only medicine sold through druggists, for woman's peculiar weaknesses and ills, the makers of which are not afraid to print its every ingredient on its outside wrapper? Is this not worthy of your consideration if you are a poor sick invalid woman?

The formula of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription will bear the most critical examination of medical experts, for it contains no alcohol, narcotics, harmful, or habit-forming drugs, and no agent enters into it that is not highly recommended by the most advanced and leading medical teachers and authorities of their several schools of practice. These authorities recommend the ingredients of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription for the cure of exactly the same ailments for which this world-famed medicine is advised.

A booklet of ingredients, with numerous authoritative professional endorsements by the leading medical authorities of this country, will be mailed free to any one sending name and address with request for same. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

It's foolish—often dangerous to accept a substitute of unknown composition in place of this time-tried medicine of known composition. Don't do it. Insist on getting what you ask for.

The woman who neglects her health is neglecting the very foundation of all good fortune. For without health love loses its lustre and gold is but dross.

Womanly health when lost or impaired may generally be regained by the use of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription.

This Prescription has, for over 40 years, been curing delicate, weak, pain-wracked women, by the hundreds of thousands and this too in the privacy of their homes without their having to submit to indelicate questionings and offensively repugnant examinations.

BELLE GUNNESS ALIVE AND WELL

This Is the Word Brought by Mysterious Letter.

WOMAN'S COMPANION WRITES

Individual Who Declares It Was He Who Accompanied Mrs. Gunness or Night She Is Alleged to Have Been Seen at Ruins of Her Home, Says His Conscience Cannot Endure to See an Innocent Man on Trial for a Crime of Which He Says the Arch Murderess Herself Is Guilty.

Laporte, Ind., Nov. 23.—Attorney Worden, who is defending Ray Lamphere, now on trial for the murder of Mrs. Belle Gunness and her children has made public a letter which he declares was received Sunday by special delivery by his law partner, Mayor Lemuel Darrow. The writer, whose full name and address is withheld by Mr. Worden, says that Mrs. Gunness is alive and that he was the man who accompanied her to the Gunness farm on July 9, the date on which D. M. Hutson and daughters say they saw Mrs. Gunness and a man drive away in a buggy. The letter follows:

"Chicago, Nov. 21, 1908.

"Lemuel Darrow, mayor, Laporte, Ind.

"Dear Sir—I hope you will see that this letter gets into the right hands so that it will help the poor innocent man, Lamphere, that they have, or trial for burning Mrs. Gunness's house and herself and children.

"Mrs. Gunness set fire to the house and was twenty miles away when it took fire. She had a slow match going, and the house was saturated with coal-oil. She poisoned the children before hand. The body with no head was one of her victims whom she killed some ten days previous. She cut off the head so people would think it was her. The arm was cut off at the same time. The head was buried on the place, as all of the body would have been, but before she had time to do the job she was afraid of being found out. So she made up her mind to cover up all of her work. The children would have been a burden to her to get away.

"The man and woman and two children did see Mrs. Gunness and myself on the ninth of last July. We were there at the house to get some valises she had hid on the premises. Mrs. Gunness was afraid of Lamphere and would have killed him in less than two weeks if she had remained there. It was getting pretty hot for her, so she had to get out.

"Mrs. Gunness is alive and well. I got a letter from her no more than five days ago, and she hoped Lamphere would get hung or a life sentence, but I could not think of him, an innocent man, being so treated.

"Now I tell you again, Lamphere is innocent and should be acquitted at once. Hoping that you will see that this letter will do him some good, I remain,
Yours for justice,
"L. O. M."

Mr. Worden said that he had been trying to reach the writer by telephone in order to have him come to Laporte to testify, but so far had failed to find him. Dr. Walter S. Haines, a Chicago toxicologist, is expected to go on the stand today to testify to the finding of strychnine and arsenic in the stomachs of Helgelein and of the five victims.

MORE PAY FOR LAW-MAKERS

Indiana Representative-Elect to Introduce Bill to This End.

Indianapolis, Ind., November 23.—Edward H. McKennon, representative-elect from Dekalb county, says he will introduce a bill in the coming session of the legislature to increase the pay of its members. A dispatch from Auburn quotes him as saying: "The present pay of members of the legislature and their mileage is not enough. I believe the cost of living in Indianapolis and the expense that a candidate incurs in a campaign prevents a member from breaking even at the end of the session. I shall introduce a bill looking to an increase in the pay. Of course, it will not inure to my benefit, even if it passed, for it would only apply to members of future sessions. Nevertheless, it is a matter of justice, and I think such a bill should be passed."

Contractors Delayed.

Indianapolis, Nov. 23.—At a meeting of the Vicksburg monument commission, held in the office of Governor Hanly, it was decided to change the date of the dedication of the monument from Dec. 8 to Dec. 28. The change is on account of the unfinished condition of the shaft, the contractors having been delayed in their work.

Used Oil to Start Fire.

MARSHALL HOLLOWELL.

Obituary.

Just as the shades of evening spread over the land the blighting hand of death claimed Marshall Hollowell youngest son of Datus and Precilla Hollowell, who was born July 4th, 1876, and died Oct. 19th, 1908 being 32 years, 3 months and 15 days old at the time of his death.

He had been in delicate health for the last 5 months but seldom complained and never grumbled. His fortitude, endurance and patience were greatly admired by those who knew him best, and knew that the smiling face and kind words were given sometimes when pain was present but his rare and winsome spirit had gotten the victory over bodily afflictions and discomfort and thus he was unable to spread sunshine in the lives of others.

He had always made his home with his parents and had for many years taken the burden of the home upon himself and never seemed to forget his duties to his mother and father in their old age. In his death his parents lose a loving, kind and dutiful son, his brothers and sister, a beloved brother and the community a kind, honest and generous friend.

He retained his mental faculties to the very last and was able to recognize his relatives and bid them good bye just as the vital spark left his body.

He leaves a father, mother, two brothers, one sister and a host of relatives and friends to add their tribute of sorrow and loving sympathy for the loss of one who was ever dutiful, kind and loving.

Now parents you shall see the star of hope when the sunset gates unbar, you shall see the welcome of his beckoning hand.

O, Marshall dear can it be true

To think that thou art gone!

Gone in the joyous flush of youth

In manhood's early dawn.

Thou wert a flower bright and fair
Just budding into bloom;
And now to think that thou art laid
Within the silent tomb.

But parents, there's a comfort still
To check your heavy grief,
And soothing balm to soothe your wounds

And bring back sweet relief.

A hope to meet your boy so dear
In an eternal home.
Where you will reunited be
And parting ne'er shall come.

Gold Medal Flour for me.

SPREAD LIKE WILDFIRE.

All Over America, the News of the Marvelous Dandruff Cures of Parisian Sage Has Spread.

A few years ago there was introduced into America a cure for dandruff, falling hair and all scalp diseases.

This hair renewer did not attract much attention for some months, until a progressive business man, hearing of several almost magical cures, decided to tell the American people of its mighty power to destroy the deadly dandruff germ.

And, today, without any sensational or untruthful advertising, Parisian Sage is used extensively in almost every town in America. And what has produced this great demand? Simply this: Parisian Sage does just what we are telling the readers of the Republican it will do.

We claim, and we back our claim with F. B. Johnson & Co.'s money back guarantee, that Parisian Sage is the most invigorating and rejuvenating hair tonic. It cures dandruff, stops falling hair and itching scalp; it makes the hair grow strong and vigorous, yet soft and lustrous. It is the only hair dressing that reaches the root bulb of the hair and destroys the dandruff germ.

And to the women who are reading this simple statement of fact, we want to say that Parisian Sage works wonders with women's hair. It will turn dull, harsh and faded hair into beautiful, lustrous hair in a few days, and is the most pleasant and satisfying hair dressing any woman ever used.

"My hair was falling out rapidly when I heard of your guaranteed hair restorer. The first application removed the itching, my hair stopped falling out, and it is soft, glossy and pliable."—Carrie Williams, 844 Clinton Ave. S., Rochester, N. Y.

F. B. Johnson seals Parisian Sage for 50 cents a large bottle, or it can be obtained direct from the makers, Giroux Mfg. Co., Buffalo, N. Y., all

Had You Thought of This?

This is the time of year when people begin to think of subscribing for some good magazine. The first thought that enters their mind is to send their subscription direct to the publisher. They don't stop to think that we have a firm in Rushville who make it their business, do all the writing and see to it that every subscription is fulfilled. Hargrove & Mullin, the druggists and newsdealers, with their triplicate error-proof system, do a big business in this line and it makes it much easier for a subscriber than to sit down and write to the publisher, make his remittance and run a chance of his letter going astray.
